Faith. Climate. Action.

A Workshop on Christian Climate Advocacy

Be involved in the vocation of caring for the creation that God made.

Climate change is a global environmental challenge that raises deep questions about what constitutes responsible stewardship of the earth, and justice for all of its inhabitants. Christian colleges and universities are ideally positioned to bring a redemptive influence to this important issue for contemporary society.

Westmont College's "Faith. Climate. Action: A Workshop on Christian Climate Advocacy," brings together experts from across the country to equip college students and faculty to be advocates for a faithful Christian response to climate change.

Situating climate advocacy within a robust theology of creation care, the workshop will send participants back to their communities ready to lead and inspire.

WHAT: An interactive, hands-on workshop on climate change advocacy featuring a stellar list of experts and educators from across the country.

WHY: Scan the QR code below or visit westmont.edu/faith-and-climate to watch the video.

WHEN: June 16–21, 2024

WHERE: Westmont College, Santa Barbara, CA

WHO: CCCU students, faculty and staff

FINANCIAL SUPPORT: All travel, meal and lodging expenses for the workshop are covered. Participants will also be eligible to apply for faculty and student stipends and project funding for pursuing advocacy projects on campus or in churches in their community.
